

INTRODUCTION

At the Thunder Bay Community Foundation, we understand that the needs of our community are always changing. That's why, for over 49 years, we've distributed about $7 million in grants, scholarships and bursaries in support of a wide variety of charitable organizations, programs, projects and students. Community Foundation grants are made possible through the generous endowments and gifts of local citizens.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Can a Non-Profit organization apply for a Thunder Bay Community Foundation grant?

A foundation can only give to QUALIFIED DONEES. Although all charitable organizations are non-profit, not all non-profits are charitable organizations.

How much can my charitable organization apply for?

This depends on the fund to which you are applying for. Each fund has a specific amount of money to be granted each year. You can apply for up to the total amount available (see the Grant Program Information document for more details). However, if you apply for the whole amount, you must ensure your project has a wide reach, is innovative and addresses an issue in our community. Additionally, the maximum amount of funding that may be requested is $25,000.

How much do other charitable organizations apply for?

The amount other charitable organization apply for varies by project and by fund. For instance, the General Fund has the largest amount of funds to be granted. On average, successful grant applications for the general fund historically have been approximately $7,500. The lowest successful request was $500 and the highest successful request was $47,000. The maximum amount of funding that may be requested during the 2020/2021 granting season is $25,000.

If we have no other funding sources, can we still apply?

Yes. We ask this in the budget section as it demonstrates a form of collaboration. We also ask about other funding and whether the funding has been secured to ensure the project will be able to move forward. If you receive funding from the Foundation but are unsuccessful from the other sources and cannot run the project, you will be required to return your grant funding to the Thunder Bay Community Foundation. This is a situation we prefer to avoid.

Our project takes place in the middle of next year, can we still apply?

As long as your project takes place before the next granting application deadline (annually mid-October), you will be can apply for a grant. Just remember, upon completion we need your grant report (link). This helps us ensure you used the funds as specified and gives us information that we can use to show off your organization to our donors.

If we do not receive a grant, is there a specific reason why?

Grants are not given based on a yes or no. Grants are marked by our Grant Marking Committee using a provided rubric. The grants are then ranked based on their mark (highest to lowest) and funds are given to projects until the fund runs out of money. On average, we receive 40 applications to the General Fund per year, however, only 15 to 25 grants are usually given out. The variance comes from a combination of the amount requested and the successful projects. Organizations who were not successful call and ask how they can improve their application for next year. Often this is not a question we can answer as it is a matter of the Grant Marking Committee's priorities and the other applications.

If we didn't finish a project for which we received funding last year, can we still apply for funding this year?

You must contact Alexandra Calderon, Executive Director ASAP. She will make the determination based on the specific circumstances.
